

practice your Understanding!

pronounced "Fuh'hem"

American writer Justin Sirois and Iraqi refugee Haneen Alshujairy cofounded the Understanding Campaign in 2010 after collaborating on a collection of short stories about displaced Iraqis. Based in Baltimore, MD, The Campaign is a nonpartisan, nonpolitical organization that wants everyone in the world to read just one word of Arabic: Fhm (fuh-hem'), which literally means understanding. The Campaign works to break down stereotypes and taboos by supporting projects that promote cross-cultural exchange.
